Ile d'Hoëdic marina

Houat's little sister has experienced much the same history. Taken and recaptured by the English, Hoëdic boasts a fort now owned by the Conservatoire du Littoral. There's a lot to preserve on this 2.5 km long island. Dune carnations, sea lilies, relics of history and memories of island lifestyles.…

Port of Saint-Goustan in Auray

An unmissable stopover for escape seekers. This ancient fishing and trading port, with its long maritime history, has survived the centuries, preserving its narrow streets, 13th-century stone bridge, timber-framed houses and cobbled quays. There are many ways to explore the town, starting from the…
